

Call for The Academy of Behavioral Finance & Economics Fellows Program 2012

The Academy of Behavioral Finance and Economics (ABF&E) invites nominations for Fellows of the Academy. This honor recognizes individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the study of Behavioral Finance & Economics, including relevant research related to contributions from cognitive psychology and neuroscience.

Qualifications

The criteria for being a Fellow of the Academy are as follows:

- (1) A Fellow's research should exhibit sustained excellence.
- (2) A Fellow's research should exhibit sustained impact on the Behavioral Finance & Economics community.
- (3) A Fellow's research should be inter-disciplinary, but disciplinary research having a sustained impact on Behavioral Finance & Economics is appropriate.
- (4) Ideally, a Fellow should have participated in the Academy's functions but such involvement is not required.

Whereas criteria (1), (2), and (3) are required for being a Fellow, criterion (4) only serves to make a case stronger.

Unusually high levels of service are not sufficient for becoming a Fellow. As described above, a Fellow's research must exhibit sustained excellence and had sustained impact on the Behavioral Finance & Economics community.

A candidate should be recognized by associates and others for professional integrity, as well as for his or her accomplishments.

All other factors being equal, the selection process takes into account diversity of intellectual area, geographical region of the world, and gender.

At the conclusion of the selection process, the final list of Academy Fellows will be made available at:

To nominate an individual, please submit the following:

A single-spaced one-page description of why the candidate merits selection as a Fellow with respect to the above criteria. The nominating individual should be specific in documenting the sustained excellence and impact of the candidate's research, including influential papers, citation counts, and other relevant measures.

A curriculum vitae for the candidate, if available.

Pointers to one or more web sites or other sources that provide information about the candidate, if available.

Nominations should be submitted via email to the Academy at staff@aobf.org

Nominations are due by August 1, 2011.

Please be sure you received verification that your nomination was received.
